

Are you an entrepreneurial lawyer looking to develop your corporate commercial expertise in a friendly and team-oriented law firm?

Affinity Law Group wants to meet you.

Affinity Law Group is a boutique business law firm located in downtown Vancouver, British Columbia looking to expand its thriving corporate commercial practice. The firm's primary practice area is corporate and commercial law, with extensive experience in mergers & acquisitions of small, mid-sized and large private companies, corporate reorganizations, corporate governance, secured lending, financing transactions and implementing trust structures (whether inter-vivos or testamentary).

An opportunity exists for an entrepreneurially minded lawyer with two to four years of experience in corporate and commercial law to join our team at Affinity. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to manage their own commercial files, as well as to be part of a team supporting larger and more extensive transactions. The person joining the Affinity team will have the opportunity to be actively involved with firm clients and to communicate directly with all of the professionals involved in completing a commercial transaction.

At Affinity, we will provide mentorship to the successful candidate, including providing regular performance reviews and assisting the candidate in establishing clear professional goals. Our team is committed to the growth of our lawyers as much as it is to supporting our clients' needs. Our ideal candidate will have experience in corporate/commercial transactions, strong academic credentials and a proven ability to show initiative and leadership while working in a team-oriented environment.

This is a high-energy, growing firm that is steadily establishing its niche in the market. If you want to be part of a group that values exceptional client service, professional development and personal growth, this is an opportunity for you.
