Be a part of a unique Canadian Legal Conference

With the changes affecting the legal profession and world markets, the 2009 CLC is a chance to learn, debate, and connect with leaders in law from Canada and Europe.

Discover – and make the most of – the trends that shape the practice of law in Canada and around the world.

And discuss how you will advance your field, and help chart a new course in Canada's legal profession.

Visit cba.org/dublin2009 or call 1-800-267-8860 for information and to register.

Reserve your flights early with Air Canada using the CBA's discount code (K9M2TBV1), and choose from one of eight conference hotels with rates as low as €145 (all hotel rates include breakfast). Apartment-style accommodation is also available.

CBA/CCCA Members Rate:

BAR ASSOCIATION
L'ASSOCIATION DU
BARREAU CANADIEN

For 3 days in August,
Dublin (Ireland) will be the centre of Canada's legal world.

This August 16 – 18, Dublin is hosting the Annual Canadian Legal Conference (CLC). Learn about international law and human rights from former Irish President, Mary Robinson. Understand the patterns impacting the business of law with visionary Leonard Brody. Recognize the trends that will transform the global practice of law with legal futurist Richard Susskind.

And connect with Canadian and international lawyers, in-house counsel, judges and other colleagues to debate how law is practiced in a complex, changing world.

Legal Education, Business Insight

The 2009 CLC is more than a unique professional development opportunity. It's an opportunity to gain a competitive edge in a quickly changing profession.

As the voice and leader of Canada's legal profession, the Canadian Bar Association (CBA) is committed to delivering substantive legal education and critical insight that will help you, your firm or your legal department perform. And gain an advantage as the practice of law adjusts to rapidly changing global realities.

If you are in a small firm or legal department with domestic presence, you will learn how peers from Canada and abroad are adapting their practice to the new economy. If you are in a larger firm or corporation with international reach – or expansion plans – you will connect with senior partners and business leaders ready to discuss common issues.

Planning to extend your stay and enjoy Ireland? A number of tours have been arranged during and around the conference for you and your family, including city tours, golf excursions, and coastal tours of Malahide & Newgrange (a UNESCO World Heritage Site). An interactive Youth Program also offers outings to Dublinia, Viking World, the 17th century Wicklow Gaol and much more.

Earning legal skills, learning Irish culture

In and around Dublin's cultural centre – Temple Bar – enjoy Georgian architecture, Gaelic tradition and an eclectic mix of history and innovation in one of Europe's hottest cosmopolitan hubs.

Immerse yourself in the past at some of the finest museums and galleries. Experience life as a Dubliner by sitting in a pub and strolling down cobblestone streets. Discover Ireland's rolling hills as you walk the greens of any number of idyllic golf courses. And unwind in some of Dublin's most historic inns and hotels, in one of the eight properties hosting the conference. Rates have been arranged to accommodate all budgets. All is within the celebrated St. Stephen's Green, and walking distance from most conference events and business sessions.

Conference attendees will also be treated to events at landmark venues including:

- Welcome reception at Mansion House, the home of the Lord Mayor of Dublin;
- Opening ceremony at the National Concert Hall;
- An exclusive performance of Riverdance at the Gaiety Theatre;
- A dinner event at Dublin Castle;
- And an evening of stout and fare at The Guinness Storehouse & Museum, the acclaimed brewer's original brewery.
